Texas Farmers Sought By Argentina To Grow Cotton In Chaco Territory

By PAUL SANDERS

Buenos Aires (AP)—Although the announced desire of Governor Jose Castells of the Chaco territory of Argentina to import American cotton farmers indicates this country's desire to speed up production of "white gold," it probably will be a long time before Argentina cuts much of a figure in the world cotton market.

Governor Castells recently announced that he intends to visit the United States in September to study the feasibility of inducing several Texas farmers to migrate to his territory. He promises them 120-acre farms.

Biggest Crop Expected
Seven million acres of what Senor Castells described as "good cotton land," is awaiting development in the Argentine Chaco, and he feels that a nucleus of American experts would stimulate production, which has increased rapidly since 1929, to the point that a 250,000 bale crop is expected this year, the highest in Argentina's history.

Most of Argentina's cotton will be used by the rapidly expanding national textile industry, booming recently with the establishment of foreign concerns, including two factories owned by American interests which produce for the first time in this country high-grade cotton prints.

Domestic textiles heretofore have been mostly of low grade, but manufacturing has increased hand in hand with increased local cotton production and restrictions on imports.

Need American Experience
What Argentina hopes to get from Americans who may be brought to the Chaco is the value of their experience, and use it to improve methods of the settlers already growing cotton in northern Argentina. Most of the cotton growers in the Chaco are Argentines from the cereal belt farther south, Spaniards, Czechs, Poles and White Russians, virtually all of them with little or no experience in cotton with little or no experience in cotton.

Americans connected with the cotton trade who have visited the Argentine Chaco in the past year returned to Buenos Aires with reports that cotton culture is growing and several million acres of potential cotton land awaits development.

But they likewise found the climate disagreeably hot. Farmers appeared to be making a living, but little more, and the most successful were those with grown children to aid in the arduous labor.

Most of the Chaco settlers live simply, even by United States southern poor white standards, and the general situation was described as arduous.

Mrs. Kenneth Kille. . . . . Mrs. Edward Sullivan and son, Edward Sullivan, and the latter's daughters, Edith and Muriel, of Glendale, L. I., were week-end guests of Mrs. Josephine Unverzagt. Mrs. Sullivan and son returned home on Sunday, leaving the Misses Sullivan for an extended visit here.

Little Malcolm Balotzin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Balotzin, entertained a few friends at his home on Liberty street Saturday in honor of his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rose spent the week-end in Binghamton with Miss Augusta Childs.

Argentina's "Dixie Land," the Chaco territory shown on the map, shows them how to cultivate "white gold." The territory is separated from the Gran Chaco, where Bolivia and Paraguay fought, by Formosa territory. The land is described as good but Americans report the climate is disagreeable and the living standard low.

Some pioneering. They were lured there by cheap land. Agents of Buenos Aires cotton houses purchase the Chaco crop, unguessed, at prices considerably under those prevailing in the United States.

Whereas Brazil, Uncle Sam's biggest and newest threat as a cotton competitor, has hundreds of millions of potential acres which may some day be developed. Best Argentine and foreign estimates place the potential Argentine cotton area at 175,000 square miles—or about two-thirds the area of Texas.

Oil Stove Set Fire To Kitchen Yesterday

Shortly after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon while a meal was being prepared on a kerosene cooking stove in the kitchen of the apartments of George Haley at 149 Prospect street, the kerosene oil in the reservoir caught fire and the fire spread to the furnishings in the room, and quite a hot blaze followed. The fire department responded to the call, and were able to bring the fire under control by the use of chemicals.

The fire caused a heavy smoke which filled the house, causing smoke damage. The house is a four family apartment house, with three of the apartments occupied and the fourth vacant. The house is owned by Alvin Wood.

Ulster Garden Club Met At Saugerties

The Ulster Garden Club met at the home of Miss Ralene Saugerties, on Tuesday, Mrs. Robert Ralene, president, presiding. Mrs. John Washburn, chairman of the Saugerties Park Committee, reported upon the memorial work being done in Seaman Park in memory of Mrs. Clark Reed, who for many years had been so actively interested in its development.

For the next meeting, August 20, cars will meet at the residence of Mrs. Searing, 142 Pearl street, to visit the garden of A. E. Jansen in New Paltz. There they will be directed to the other gardens to be visited and ending for tea at "The Shop in the Garden", Stone Ridge, as the guest of Mrs. Everett Fowler. Members not able to take the trip may join the club for tea at 4:30 p. m.

Notices were read of the following flower show to which the club is invited to exhibit: Ulster County Fair, Kingston, August 20-21-22; The Shawangunk Garden Club at Ellenville, August 21; West Park Flower Show at West Park, September 3; Saugerties Little Gardens Club at Saugerties Reformed Church, Saugerties, September 13; St. Remy Flower Show at St. Remy, September 13.

Mrs. Knauth gave an interesting report of the meeting in July at Ticonderoga of the North East Zone of the Garden Club of America. The Essex County Club reported having secured the passage of a law that automobiles "grave yards" must be 350 feet from the highway and be enclosed by a high fence. They have also caused the removal from the roads of the many small food signs which do so much to detract from enjoying the scenery.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Herman Kelley, chairman of the Horticultural Committee, who had planned the program for the day. Mrs. Edward Wilburn gave a very interesting and helpful account of how she had constructed a green house at a very small cost by using discarded materials which had been stored away.

Mrs. Burgevin read an account of the fertilization of cactus by Mrs. G. D. Smith, illustrated with pictures. Mrs. Larned gave an early garden experience. Mrs. Kelley then demonstrated by the aid of cuttings how to separate and propagate coral bells, oriental poppies and bleeding hearts. Tea was then served to the club and several other guests.

Camp Wendy Girls Honor Marion Borden

The Brownie Unit of Camp Wendy conducted a tree-planting ceremony on Sunday, August 4, held in honor of the late Marion Borden.

About 125 people attended, including campers and residents of Wallkill. Miss Lillian E. Parish led the campers around the maple tree. Brownies recited poems and, as a representative from each unit put a shovel full of dirt on the roots of the tree, the girls sang "The Tree Song."

Miss Helen Hasbrouck, camp committee chairman, spoke about Miss Borden, explaining that Camp Wendy would never have been possible had it not been for Marion Borden giving the property on which the camp is situated to the Girl Scouts.

The Pioneer Unit enjoyed a three-day jeep trip under the leadership of Jean Anderson and Margaret Stanton. After hiking about three miles the camp car took them to Minnewaska, where they camped.

Among the many adventures, they climbed Minnewaska, hiked through the crevices, explored the vicinity, cooked corn over hot coals and received a pleasant surprise when Miss Mildred Eaton, local director, came and suggested they follow a trail she had planned for a treasure hunt. The surprise was watermelon.

On Friday Camp Wendy held an International Night. Each unit represented a different country, and their entertainment was planned according to the country they represented. The Brownies were Spanish and staged a bull fight. Lost boys did an Irish folk dance. The Pirates were Chinese. Tinkerbell was Hawaiian; they gave a ballad and sang "Aloha." The Pioneers were Swiss Mountainers and danced to the tune of a pipe. The campers gathered in a circle, sang an evening song, Taps and then to bed.

Kingston girls in camp at present are Charlotte M. Cooper, Freda Kaplitz, Olive Lewis, Martha Ellen Ashcroft, Marguerite Broeck, Margaret Merrill, Marjorie Delaney, Anne Fessenden, Marie E. Rose and Rose Campbell.

Sunday evening, August 4, Floyd Stone of Wittenberg was given a picnic dinner at his home in honor of his birthday. There were 49 guests present, including Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. ## Events Around The Empire State Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—Republican Senate Leader George R. Fearon renewed today his criticism of Governor Herbert H. Lehman for diversion of state gasoline and motor vehicle revenues to other than highway purposes.

In a letter to Arthur L. Jacobs, secretary of the Binghamton Automobile Club, saying he would actively support the governor in his plan to pledge $3,000,000 from next year's budget to permit an immediate start on a state highway construction program, Fearon declared:

"If it had not been for the action of the governor in diverting the gasoline and motor vehicle money, a proportion of which the law definitely provides shall be used for highway purposes, he would not find himself in this difficulty."

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—New Yorkers tomorrow will celebrate General Friedrich Wilhelm Von Steuben day in honor of General Friedrich Wilhelm Von Steuben, aide to General Washington in the Revolutionary War.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman designated the day in a proclamation calling upon New Yorkers to display the flag at their homes and other suitable places in honor of the general.

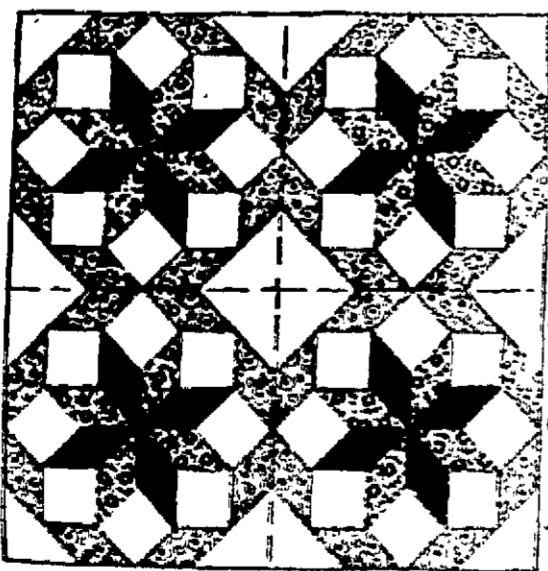

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—Traffic on the main line of the Erie Railroad was back to normal today after being blocked for six hours yesterday when the locomotive of a westbound freight left the rails and toppled over against an embankment at Kirkwood, eight miles east of here.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—Strict traffic rules will prevail for all roads surrounding the Pine Camp campment Aug. 17-31.

Lieut. H. C. Herrick, second in command of a detachment of 50 troopers at the camp, said that: "Reckless drivers face immediate arrest, the speed limit on Main arteries is 40 miles per hour, trucking concerns must expect delays and drivers must not try to make up lost time in maneuver areas."

PATTERN 3249

"Twinkle, twinkle little stars," and they really don't go very far, for this is the kind even you can capture and anchor securely to earth by stitching a beautiful patchwork quilt. The "Brunswick Star" with its blue all the delicate patchwork, bordered by eight contrasting diamond patches, makes a decorative repeat on an all-over quilt. Only four materials are needed for it and, in stitching matters, there are only three pattern pieces. This quilt is an old colonial favorite.

In pattern 3249 you will find the block chart, an illustration for cutting and piecing the blocks for stars and diamonds and a diagram showing how the quilt is pieced together. The diagram shows the quilt as a whole, with the blocks and diamonds pieced together.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Shorter gloves
'come out' with decorations.
Liana Merwin

The latest gloves for fall and winter smartly harmonize with new apparel fashions. Some gloves show shorter lengths, so that decoration is visible and wears more comfortably with full length coat sleeves.

Pull-on styles are also much favored and reveal very pleasing variation of trimming, which includes shirring, stitching, ruffles, braided effects and covered buttons. Blacks and browns predominate.

The attractive glove of black kid shown in the circle at right features a shallow cuff with self-cord and wide self-braided edge in smart bracelet fashion.

In the bottom row, the glove at left, also of black kid, in a pull-on style shows unique trimming with self-tabs and three self-covered buttons arranged diagonally across the cuff.

The dressy kid glove pictured in the center is another smart pull-on type. It displays a fashionably shirred gusset and three self-ruffles on the back of cuff. This model is recommended for wear with the new shirred gowns and frocks.

At bottom, right, a pull-on glove of brown kid exhibits novel stitching which continues down onto the hand and a long, cylinder button is placed at the side.

Mutari Will Run On Taxpayers' Platform

Prior to calling to order the 22 members who had gathered for the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Taxpayers' Council, at the Staybent Hotel, Friday night, George J. Mutari, president of the council, made a statement regarding his nomination as candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Mutari said that before meeting convened he wanted to "clear up this political situation." He added that he had prepared a statement, "in order that we may know where we stand," and that it would be his "first and only statement."

Following is Mr. Mutari's statement: "I am issuing the following statement as regards the nomination for sheriff of Ulster county, handed to me by the Democratic convention Tuesday evening, August 6.

"This nomination came as a complete surprise to me as I was not seeking, nor expecting, any nomination for any office by any party. I entered the Auditorium where the convention was in session, in the interest of the taxpayers of Ulster county and in whose interests I have devoted the major part of my time, without compensation since becoming a resident and taxpayer of Ulster county. The nomination came as a bolt of lightning out of a clear sky.

In view of the fact that I have consistently made suggestions and freely offered criticism to both of our major political parties and, I cannot consistently continue to refuse to take an active part in the government of the county. I have refused nominations in the past and have had much criticism leveled at me because of it. I believe the situation calls for cooperation rather than refusal in this case. However, I am making it a matter of public record that I will base my candidacy on a taxpayers' platform. I propose to be independent of political dictation and am accepting the nomination, conditionally, on this understanding."

A PLATTER OF COOL, DELECTABLE TIDBITS

Just look at this platter of smart, summer appetizers, all ready to be brought into the living-room with a tray of tall, tinkling drinks. Pretty as a picture, don't you think?

Each tempting morsel on the platter is light and dainty—the very thing to tempt finicky, end-of-the-summer appetites. Some are made of fruit, and fruit—as doubtless you've heard—is the last word in summer appetizers. Around the edge of the platter, stuck on toothpicks, you'll see chilled melon balls and juicy little chunks of fresh pineapple, flecked with finely minced mint. Don't they look coolly alluring? So they are. Just try them.

Circle. For these cut thinly sliced bread in circles; toast on one side; spread untoasted side with mayonnaise, then with caviar seasoned with a few drops of lemon juice. Sprinkle with sieved hard-cooked egg yolk and garnish with thin slices of stuffed olive.

The small, perfect tomato in the center of the platter holds a zesty filling made of chopped anchovies, diced celery, finely shredded cabbage and a little tart mayonnaise. It's topped off with a curled anchovy.

Hints for the College Girl to Help Her to Plan a Smart Wardrobe

By BARBARA BELL

What clothes for a smart college entrance? Are the requirements very stiff? Does it cost a small fortune to keep up with one's roommate, or can one squeeze by on a skimpy allowance? These are the questions now being popped by thousands of would-be freshmen who view next semester's adventure in the light of one big fashion problem.

To find the right answers, we went straight to a number of last year's graduates with a reputation for chic. They dropped round to see the buyers for certain big metropolitan stores that make a business of outfitting the college girl with smartness and good taste. Together, they gave us an excellent idea of important style trends in school clothes, as well as an abundance of timely tips that mean important savings to the girl with a limited budget.

Last year's graduates had this to say: Girls' schools demand simple sports clothes almost exclusively; co-ed schools are a little more dressy, for obvious reasons. Small schools in small towns are so casual about fashions that the simple wool frock and the sweater and skirt amount practically to a uniform. Big colleges in big cities have a few collegiate conventionalities—many girls live in the city itself, and many of the campus and naturally dress as would any other busy young urbanite.

Moreover, members of the class of '35 have a word of cheer for the girl who plans to go through college on a shoestring. A thrifty lot, many of them learned to make a few clothes do the work of a much bigger wardrobe. Listen to their advice: Make your own clothes if you can—savings help you to have dresses of good quality materials in becoming colors and styles at really amazing savings, and if you have a flair for design, you can give each one precious individuality. Buy good clothes, not cheap ones—they will look smarter much longer. Buy simple clothes in styles that will not go out of date too soon. A tailored camel's hair coat, for example, will probably wear you all four years. Knit your own lot of classic pullover sweaters in your favorite colors—you'll wear them constantly with suits and sporty skirts, with the knee sleeves pulled up to elbow length, and, if you're a Vassarite, with a single strand of pearls around your neck.

Let the biggest part of your budget be sports clothes, have two or three silk dresses for week-ends, dinner and formal teas, and at least two simple evening dresses that you can wear with the same wrap. If it's customary to dress formally for dinner on frequent occasions at the college you attend, you'll need more of the latter. College laundries are hard on clothes, and if you're saving money you'll want to do a bit of the laundry yourself, so concentrate on simple tailored undershirts and detachable collars and cuffs for dark dresses. Take a warm bathrobe if you're going up North, and a raincoat wherever you go.

Two-piece dresses get smarter and smarter. Every college wardrobe next fall is going to need at least one and probably more for campus and classroom wear. The most important reason for their popularity is the fact that a separate blouse and skirt constitute almost an entire wardrobe in themselves. Add a different skirt to the blouse, wear the skirt with sweaters—all you need is a little ingenuity and a nice sense of contrast.

Here is a chance for some very effective contrast. A plaid velvet blouse with a plaid skirt. Light red velvet blouse with a dark skirt. Dark brown blouse with a dark skirt. These new touch-tone colors—the bright reds, greens, blues and the flaming oranges, yellows and browns—add a new note to the wardrobe. Or the blouse might be a simple crepe with a dark wool skirt.

Fashion has prepared a brand new trick for transforming one frock into two, an appealing idea for the college girl on a slim clothes budget. A pleated blouse attached to the skirt is the secret. Wear this, and the frock looks two-piece. Substitute another blouse, without pleats, and the dress has an entirely different air.

Sports accessories should include a classic felt hat with a trim that can be worn several ways, call or cord, wide and narrow belts in bright colors, clips, and perhaps a monogrammed belt to wear on wool frocks or sweaters. Later you will need wool socks, mittens and a pull down cap for winter sports. (Copyright, 1935, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Paris Offers New "Pick Up" Sport Frocks To Brighten Drooping Summer Wardrobe

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

Paris (AP)—"Pick up frocks" have stepped out in Paris to bring new life to end-of-summer wardrobes.

Since the new Paris winter fashions cannot be on the market until late September, these are designed to fill in the gap, revive wilting wardrobes and provide smart frocks for late season wear.

Velvet pipings, sequins darts, fur trims and colorful accents are used to give the designs chic. Most of the town models are made of crepe, since that is wearable on both late summer and early fall days, though a number of wools are shown too.

Sports Frocks in Brown

Black is a favorite town color, with dark blue, wine red and mustard green likewise shown. Brown and beige appear more often in sports frocks.

There are a number of black crepe frocks designed with slender waists and big sleeves just short of full length, which are finished with striking accents. One has a cluster of mother-of-pearl leaves at the base of the draped neckline, another is trimmed with white silk braid frogs. Colorful touches such as an irregularly shaped pimento red crepe yoke or a wide green leather belt finish others.

Trims Colorful

Some of the new black wools are marked by such fur trims as a black breithaupt's plastron or a shaved lamb cowl collar and belt, while others have bodices worked with shiny black sequins darts or belts touched with a paillette design. A dark carnation red crepe frock is smartened by velvet pipings of the same color which encircle the round collar and band the wrists. A red velvet carnation closes the neckline.

Wools, both knitted and woven, make the smartest country frocks which often appear in wood brown and sand beige tones. Some of the smartest are cut with divided skirts and topped by short jackets so that they are ready for golf links or fields.

A FROCK which Paris designs to brighten drooping summer sports wardrobes is this one of beige wool barred in brown. It has a divided skirt and is fastened with brown leather buttons and belt. A slouch hat in the same tones and a brown wool jacket complete the costume. Designed by de Nagornoff.

Sow Perennial Seed Now For Border

Summertime is planting time for the lovely perennial flowers which you should have for next summer's display of color.

Don't let the hot weather put you off on this important job, or you will be sorry next year, when the only alternative is buying plants on the market—and taking the varieties as they come—then waiting another entire season for blooming plants.

There are, of course, a few perennials which may be bought as plants in the spring, and which will bloom in the first year. Their bloom will never be as free or lovely as well established flowers, however, and most of them will not bloom at all.

Setting out a supply of perennials this summer for transplanting next fall is easier than you might imagine. If you have a cold frame or some corner of the garden which is protected from the worst weather and may in some way be shaded, your troubles will be small. A good plan is to sink small boxes, with the bottoms removed, into the ground. They will form a protecting rim around the small bed, and may be covered on the hottest days with a cloth or newspaper. At the same time they will protect your seedlings from being trampled upon, and assist to identify types and varieties.

What perennials shall I plant? This is always a puzzling question, because there are so many hundreds to choose from, and the season is so far away. The question will have to be decided according to your likes and dislikes, and the needs of your garden.

For the early summer display delphinium, pyrethrum, galliardia, sweet Williams, campanulas and foxgloves, as well as the lovely columbines should be planted. The hollyhocks and hardy phlox are best for mid-summer, and should not be neglected, as this season lacks something in color from the earlier summer, and you should provide a few annuals to supplement the perennials. For the fall be sure to plant the hardy asters and chrysanthemums.

Now perennials may be transplanted in the fall during September and October, with the exception of the fall blooming asters and chrysanthemums, which should be set out in the spring.

DRUMMAKING "TRY OUT" MANY COLORS FOR FALL

Paris (AP)—Colors for fall are still to be decided upon, for drum-makers have chosen many to "try out" and news of the final choices will wait until the fashion shows. But designers of "green" are all through the fashion world, old Italian blues, yellows and burnt oranges are seen, while the standbys, black and brown, probably will be much shown.

HELPS for HOUSEWIVES

Lists Invaluable As Memory Aids For The Shopper

Lists are useful, from the laundry list to the list of odds and ends of shopping that must be done.

When you think of something you wish to get that is not needed immediately for a meal write it down on a piece of paper which you can keep in a kitchen drawer, and which is headed "To Do Some Time," or whatever you wish to call such chores. Then, when you have time to do a little extra shopping carry this list along with you.

It also will save time if you put a piece of carbon paper between two sheets of paper when making out a laundry list. This will save you the trouble of making a duplicate list for yourself together with the one for the laundry.

Also write out the list of vegetables, meats and other things you intend to buy at the market. Otherwise you will be sure to come home having forgotten the salt, the sugar or something. Of course you may have a wonderful memory for every detail, but why worry the brain over such matters when a list does it all for you so easily.

Odds and Ends

To freshen lettuce that has wilted put under the cold water faucet until the water has run very cold and the lettuce has picked up its leafy sprits.

To keep lettuce in the ice box so that it does not go limp place it in an old mapkin that has been soaked in cold water and wrung out.

Use cold water for eye stains. Boiling water should be used for stains caused by fruits, fruit juices, and such. Cold water must be used for meat juice, or for a blood stain where a child has had a tumbling, gravel scraping accident. Soap and cold water, or a starch paste also serve well for taking out the stains made by meat juices.

For cream or milk stains use cold water first for washing purposes, and then soap and cold water.

TAILORED JACKET TOWS BROWN WOOL, DRINKS

Paris (AP)—A brown wool dress seen here was topped by a fitted tailored jacket with collar and sleeve pipings of fine red silk. Another of velvet and wool, was accompanied by a hip-length length cap lined in matching velvet, while a green wool dress had a waist-length jacket with a collar and from plastron of natural brown seal.

Ohio Committee Improves House

Ironton, Ohio.—The women's division of the better housing committee in this city recently undertook the modernization of an old house.

The floors are being done over, and it is being repapered and repainted. The kitchen and bathroom are being modernized and the exterior painted.

When the renovations have been completed the house will be open for the inspection of the public. Later it will be taken over jointly by the women's clubs of the city and used as a club house.

SUNBURNED LAWNS NEED MORE THAN JUST WATER

By THE MASTER GARDENER

Water alone will not revive lawns which have turned brown and unattractive under the burning rays of the sun. They must be supplied with nourishment as well as water.

With the coming of the cooler weather, which usually arrives in late August, grass has a chance to make a better showing, provided it is properly watered and fed. Apply a complete plant food when the grass is dry at the rate of 4 pounds per 100 square feet and soak the lawn thoroughly immediately after plant food is applied. Even distribution of plant food is essential for best results. Thorough soaking of the lawn is also necessary. A superficial sprinkling will not revive a lawn that is in need of water and plant food. Any part of the lawn on which the grass is thin should be reseeded in the early fall. This gives the newly seeded grass a chance to get a good start before winter. A heavy mat of grass and a deep-growing, extensive root system is the lawn's best protection against winter injury. Proper use of water and plant food now will produce both sturdy root and top growth before winter.

Attractive Boys' Room Encourages Home Play

The child who has attractive quarters of his own will spend more leisure time at home than the child whose quarters are makeshift and who feels he has no place which is his personal domain.

Under the terms of the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing Administration it is easy to create such a room as the one pictured on this page to intrigue the fancy of the young gentleman of the house. A good credit rating and a reasonable assurance of ability to repay the credit within the agreed time is all that is necessary to obtain modernization credit through any lending institution approved by the administration.

If two boys are to occupy the room, each can have a separate sleeping space in sleeping suits in keeping with its architectural equipment. A ladder is placed at the side for the convenience of the person who sleeps in the "upper

Frames Of Cork, Glass And Wire Really Do "Join" Picture To Room

Bamboo and punched tin are being used in frames.

By MARGERY TAYLOR
Copyright, 1935, by McCall's Magazine for The Kingston Daily Freeman

Modern frames, even for old pictures, really do "join" the picture to the room.

The newest frames cleverly use brilliant metallic papers, wood veneers, clear and colored mirror glass, linen, wire, bamboo and cork.

Bamboo, so smart at the moment, delightfully frames bird and flower studies. A richly colored Japanese print is best set off by a narrow bamboo frame with a water-like wide mat of crystal mirror. The present crystal and mirror mode, for instance, is charmingly expressed in a wide gold mirror mat and a narrow white rope molding frame for a yellow flower picture.

Victorian—and lightly modern—is fine painted wire in lacy loops, white, canary yellow, green or brown; perfect for old flower prints. So is punched tin, painted white.

Vivid modern paintings come to life in cork frames with narrow mats in white or one of the picture's colors. The cork frame is especially at home in the man's study; cork mats are striking for decorative pictures etched in copper or chromium foil with matching metal frames.

White frames are most popular of all since the modern French painters used them to set off their new colors. A small painting may be made important with a deep tray molding and a wide mat. A white tray molding is very effective with edge and bevel in brilliant blue-green, lacquer red or canary yellow—in contrast to the picture's coloring.

New and smart for frames is natural wood or wood slightly rubbed with white. Neater is the wood or wood veneer mat in oak, hollywood or mahogany—just right for hunting prints, scenes and some portraits.

Perhaps the most striking frames are not frames at all—just two clips of copper, brass or chromium to hold the glass.

Shipshape Cabin

This nautical-looking room is bound to appeal to a very young man. The built-in double-decker bunk is a feature of the room. It saves floor space and is in keeping with the salty flavor of the general decorations. Walls and ceiling are of a composition material, insulated to prevent the noisiness of boyish games carrying to the rest of the house.

A room furnished as a ship's cabin with furniture that has a touch of nautical about it need not be expensive and is sure to appeal to a boy, whether he is 6 or 16.

Safe driving at a moderate speed requires nothing but self-control and a strong rear bumper.

Officer—Say, look here; you can't stop here!
Motorist—I can't, eh? Well, officer maybe I should not stop here, but you don't know this car like I do.

Mother—Shall I put the parrot on the back porch?
Daughter (who is on the back porch)—Goodness, no! Father is repairing the car in the backyard.

Even As You and I!

When Noah sailed the waters blue He had his troubles, same as you For forty days he drove the ark Before he found a place to park.

The driver who insists on shooting in and out of a string of traffic on busy streets, and on highway curves, should be compelled to carry some sort of brand or mark that would identify him as the traffic cheater that he is. This would at least give other drivers fair warning and permit them a chance to "play safe" when they meet the traffic cheater. Nine times out of ten when one of these "in a hurry" drivers takes a chance and gets caught in an accident, the real sufferer is the innocent party.

Traffic Officer—Pull over to the curb there! What is your hurry?
Excited Speeder—B-but, officer, I'm on my way to the hospital. I'm about to b-b-become a father!

There are two kinds of people, according to the logic of our friend, the traffic officer: "The quick and the dead."

A storm-bound motoring party asked an old mountaineer, chopping wood, if they might stay in his house overnight. "Ask the old woman inside," he replied. "It's all I can do to stay there myself."

Gerald—Did he die a natural death?
Charles—Yes, he was run over on the street.

The three things that are always entitled to the right of way are:
A Fire Truck
An Ambulance
A Woman

It only takes an onyx ball to replace the old composition knob on the gear shift to put a car in the select class.

A preacher and a lawyer were discussing the mistakes of speech.
Preacher—What do you do if you say something you didn't intend to say?

Lawyer—That depends. If it is a serious mistake I correct it. If only a slight mistake I pass on and do not notice it. What do you do?

Preacher—I follow the same rule. For instance, last Sunday I intended to say that the devil was the father of liars, but I said that the devil was the father of lawyers.

Lawyer—What did you do?
Preacher—It was such a slight mistake that I went on without correcting it.

The man who burns himself out piling up wealth and then spends the sunset of life sitting on the porch of a sanitarium watching the health go by—has failed. He has failed in his use of time. In his accumulation of millions of dollars he has sacrificed thousands of hours of naptime. For time, not money, is the stuff that life is made of.

Excited Feminine Voice (over the phone)—Hello, Hello! Come up at once. Two boys are trying to climb in our window.

Fire Chief—Sorry, Miss, but this is the fire department. What you want is the police station.
Feminine Voice—Oh, no! Our room's on the second floor and they need a ladder.

Most of us fear our friends more than we do our enemies.

Drill Teams Feature At Legion Convention

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—Smartly attired and precisely drilled teams, representing posts from every section of the state, will be one of the major spectacles of the New York state department of the American Legion convention when they compete for honors on Friday, August 30, the second day of the three-day meeting.

Major Morgan K. Harris, of Homer, chairman of the state committee, is cooperating with Miles J. Dorsey, Rochester, chairman for this event.

Most of the more than a score of drill teams in the state have entered their representatives in the competition, which will start at 9 a. m.

Under the rules promulgated by the state committee, each team will drill for twenty minutes under infantry drill regulations. Awards will be made on the following points:

Inspection, appearance, cadence, alignment and distance, manual commanding officer and drill. Drill will count 40 points and each of the others, ten.

There also will be keen competition for awards in the bugle and drum corps division.

Stewart C. Brown, chairman of this division, said that 75 per cent of the 100 corps certified in the state have entered the contests. They will take place at the same time as the drill competition.

Teams will be judged on the basis of marching ability, maneuvers, inspection of instruments, playing ability and uniforms. There will be cash and trophy awards, including the state championship cup.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Buried treasure, theme of many adventurous movies, has struck the fancy of Warren Williams and he is talking about it more than ever now. Since he first discussed an expedition to Cocos Island, the William fan mail—of an unusual kind—has increased.

Propositions include, more numerous, petitions to be allowed to go along on the cruise are now in his daily mail. And out of the lot the actor has found one so interesting that he may change his original plan, he says, and set out for richer treasure. If it all works out, when he gets time off from pictures, he may return to Hollywood with a fortune that would make his movie earnings seem pikerish.

And then Warren Williams always did like a boat.

Lyttell Notes Direction

Bert Lyttell, formerly of the movies but more recently a stage star, is a quiet observer on the set of "The Magnificent Obsession." His friend, John Stahl, is the director, and Lyttell is there to take notes on how pictures are being made today. So "Directed by Bert Lyttell" may be a screen credit one of these days.

Ruth Chatterton used to have the prize dressing-room suite on the Warner lot, and when she left Barbara Stanwyck fell heir. Since Miss Stanwyck also has left the lot, they have solved the problem by giving it, not to a star, of whom other stars might be envious, but to songwriters Harry Warren and Al Dubin.

Plays Easy To Adapt

Easiest of film "raw materials" to adapt to the screen, writers will tell you, is a good play. Most difficult to wrestle with, some think, is the play that is built on a censorable situation or is full of "double meaning" dialogue which must be eliminated. Most enjoyable because it challenges imagination and gives scope for creative work on a single situation. It is easier to amplify than to condense screen materials, which makes screen-writing of a lengthy novel a gargantuan task—especially in talkies.

Novels were easier in the silent days, because whole chapters could be bridged over nicely by a single subtitle. But the talkies require greater compactness. A silent script could be between 175 and 225 pages long, while a talkie script more than 120 pages long is considered over length.

FLOOD DEBRIS CLEARED BY CCC

CCC workers are finding their hands full in clearing rubbish and wreckage from the recent devastating flood in upstate New York. Top, workers are shown clearing a road in Watkins Glen Park, at Watkins Glen. Bottom, plans are going forward for protection against future floods. Workmen are shown building a temporary dyke to deflect possible flood waters from Montour Falls. (Associated Press Photo).

RECORD BREAKING CORN STALK?

New York state has challenged the corn-raising west for the champion height corn stalk—and what a challenge. Here the stalk is shown—12 feet 5 inches tall—in the backyard of Orazio Posta, who raised it at Mamaroneck, N. Y. Mrs. Posta stands at the bottom of the ladder while daughters Gloria and Mary climb above to investigate. Wichita, Kan., has boasted an 11-foot stalk. (Associated Press Photo).

Commissioner Joins Fight On Auto Fumes

C. A. Hartert, right, New York's Motor Vehicle Bureau head, accepts the first automobile safety test card in the state from Hugh Herndon, Jr., former Pacific flur. Expressing the intention of having his own car and those of the Bureau tested for deadly carbon monoxide fumes, the Commissioner added, "The Bureau has taken cognizance of these fumes as a real menace. In observing the rules of safe driving, motorists should not overlook this invisible danger."

RELIEF JOB STRIKE MAY HIT WHOLE NATION

Wrangling over wages paid for works progress administration jobs reached a showdown between the government and American Federation of Labor at New York when a strike affecting 100,000 men was voted. George Meany (upper left), president of the New York state federation of labor is shown addressing union labor delegates at a meeting where the strike was voted. However, strikers were warned by Hugh Johnson (right) and Harry Hopkins (inset, lower left), relief officials, that other workers would be called in to fill the jobs. A WPA tenement project in New York affected by the strike is shown at bottom. Labor officials predicted the strike would attain nation-wide proportions. (Associated Press Photos)

This unusual photo shows Robert Tate, badly injured, as he was lowered on a stretcher down the face of Half Dome mountain in Yosemite national park after being seriously injured and marooned all night on a ledge. The rescue was made in stages, with the rope being tied from tree to tree or from rock to rock. Tate's woman companion also was rescued. (Associated Press Photo)

DETROIT WIVES PICKET PACKERS IN MEAT STRIKE

Carrying their campaign for a 20 per cent reduction in meat prices direct to the strikers, Detroit housewives are shown as they staged a mass picketing demonstration at local packing plants. They marched to the accompaniment of a chant which ended in the call: "Go-see Packers!" They are picketed to guarantee that until the prices come down. (Associated Press Photo)

PLANNED TOUR OF ROBBERY

Confessing one robbery which resulted in a murder, two youths of Peekskill, N. Y., told New York city authorities they had planned a tour into the west, robbing as they went to pay the bills. But their arrest as suspicious characters resulted in their landing in jail and a first degree murder charge facing them. Left to right, State Police Sergeant Charles La Forge, Peter Mohlsick, one of the youths; State Trooper F. Kappesser, and Howard Eichler, the other youth. (Associated Press Photo).

RESCUED FROM MOUNTAINSIDE

Elizabeth Lorimer of Chicopee, Mass., is shown after she was rescued from the side of Half Dome mountain in Yosemite national park, Calif., after being marooned all night. She holds the sports shorts she wore and which afforded ill protection from the cold. A companion, also rescued, was badly injured. Note bruises on Miss Lorimer's legs. (Associated Press Photo)

CANDY 'KING' IN COMEBACK AT 81

A comeback that practically outdoes a Horatio Alger story was effected by James H. Wadsworth at the age of 81. He lost a fortune during the depression and was forced to peddle candy on New York streets for a living. Then he got the idea of making candy from vegetables. Now he has been named president of a candy corporation capitalized at a million dollars. He is shown with his wife in the kitchen of their home—and appropriately making candy. ## HAYES INSTALLING MILL AT GOLD MINE

Friends of W. Dean Hays, who has been at Schrieber, Ontario, for the past two months where he is supervising the installation of a new 20-ton a day mill at the Harkness-Hayes gold mining camp, are receiving very encouraging letters from him as to the wonderful new discoveries of gold veins, and he also reports that they had a very welcome visitor last week in the form of a large black bear, which broke through the wire screen of the meat house, eating eleven pounds of lard, eight pounds of butter and 45 pork chops, leaving two small chops for 17 hungry men. It is thought after he has disposed of his meal he will again return for another feast, when the men will be ready for him with guns and traps, and will in turn eat his chops. The bull moose and bears are very plentiful in this gold country.

The collection of small mammals, birds and other animals in the exhibition cases at the Trailside Museum at Bear Mountain, conducted by the American Museum of Natural History, for the commissioners of the Talcott-Hayes Intermediate Park, is badly recruited by gifts by visitors to the park, by residents of neighboring communities, and by workers under the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration and the Civilian Conservation Corps.

In a recent vote on his "Blue Laws," Fayetteville, N. C., decided to allow the sale of gasoline and soft drinks during church hours, but voted against dancing after midnight on Saturdays.

Only one person has been arrested for violation of the ordinance forbidding persons to hitch-hike in Athens, Ga., since it was passed in 1932. The case was dismissed.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Around Flushing, L. I., which is a part of the city of New York, there are about 35 miles of bridge trails. So that section is exceedingly popular with those who are in favor of horse-back riding. Recently two rather well known, and somewhat stout, women went out for an afternoon canter. After some time, one of them became convinced that they had been given broncos and that to continue farther might be dangerous. She expressed her fears to her companion who promptly agreed. The two horses were tied to trees and the women walked back to the riding academy. There they explained what they had done—but were unable to tell where they had left their mounts. A search was started at once, but it was a day and a half before the horses were found. If they hadn't been tied, they would have made their own way home before the riders got there.

The recent Broadway visit of Mrs. Vernon Castle McLaughlin caused old timers to hark back to the days when she and her first husband, Vernon Castle, caused New York to become really dance conscious, though tea dansants did not take society by storm until they were sponsored by Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken. But at any rate, once started, the tea dansants at the fashionable hotels attracted the fashionables in great numbers. Those were the days when youth did not have its present freedom, so at the hotel dances there were many chaperons as dancers, the walls being lined with stiff dowagers keeping sharp eyes on the young folks as they did the bunny hug, the turkey trot and other popular numbers of the period.

Despite the vigilance of the chaperons—as a matter of fact because of the chaperons—many of the debs and sub debs danced with those not in the social register. In those days, there were no stag lines, so frequently there was a lack of men. When that happened, the dowagers went shopping—but not for ordinary department store wares. Their quest was always successful since when the craze got under way, the big department stores issued orders that floor walkers and men clerks had to learn to dance—a form of customer service that resulted in many employees spending afternoons on dance floors instead of behind counters.

A youngster, fresh from the wide open spaces, found himself in a cafeteria for the first time in his life. He was lost until informed that he had to get a tray, napkin, silverware, etc., then go to the counters, select the food he desired, carry it to a table and pay his check on the way out. When he had finished eating, he hurried to the cashier's cage, laid the check and exact amount on the counter and ran. A short distance away, he met a friend and told him what had happened. "But I am lucky," he said, "I got away without having to wash the dishes."

Ruth Weston, who plays the part of the hare-lipped girl in "Tobacco Road," has an extensive library dealing with that congenital affliction. She began acquiring books on hare-lip as soon as she was given the part, supplementing her reading with visits to hospitals and clinics. Then in order to speak correctly, she listened to phonograph records made by physicians who treat such cases. But in all her investigations she never questioned a hare-lipped person, her fear being that she would cause embarrassment.

Riding up Seventh avenue, I saw four loads of unbalanced hay, the first I've seen in all these years and years in New York. Reminded me of the old days when automobiles and roads were not what they are now. Getting behind a load of hay on a highway meant proceeding slowly until the driver chose to turn out, which he usually took his time about doing. Those four loads, all horse drawn, didn't seem to make any difference to Seventh avenue traffic.

Fire Bell Imperils Station
Elyria, Ohio.—Fire Chief William Bates has asked W. H. Vanoster, of Elyria, to do away with the curfew and the ringing of the fire bell in the tower above the fire station. The fire chief says if they continue to ring the station will cave in. The poor condition of the fire hall was cited by the chief in a letter asking for a new station.

Colonel Loves It
Honolulu.—The "captain hates the sea" perhaps but the colonel loves it. Referring, of course, to Col. George C. Patton of the United States army who, when he was ordered to Hawaii for duty, purchased the 34-foot yacht Arcturus and sailed it to the islands from California.

Col. Patton navigated the two-master schooner rigged craft from San Pedro to Hilo, island of Hawaii, in 15 days. The 200 mile voyage from there to Honolulu took almost as long, as the officer stopped on the island of Maui to buy a string of gold pumies. On a previous tour of duty here the colonel was stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, during the time the United States, where he was captain of the post's polo team.

Pigeon Show Speed
Moline, Ill.—A pigeon owned by Tony Brothers of Moline averaged 52 miles an hour in a 225-mile race from Moline, Ill., to win a new Moline Pigeon club record for the distance. The old record was 40 miles an hour.

FIND BIG STORE OF CARBON DIOXIDE GAS

Made Available by Completion of Boulder Dam.

San Francisco.—Huge reserves of carbon dioxide gas exist under the world Salton sea basin of southern California. It is reported to the American Chemical society, at its nineteenth meeting here.

Thirty-five billion cubic feet of the gas are already stored and will yield nearly a million tons of "dry ice." It is estimated following extensive surveys by Dwight C. Roberts, California geologist. This estimate, it is pointed out, excludes additions by future natural chemical production.

Wide use of dry ice, or solidified carbon dioxide, in household refrigeration, air conditioning, railway refrigeration, and dairy technique is predicted. Retail house-to-house service is foreseen by Thomas B. Slate, pioneer construction engineer in this field, who is now engaged in developing the Mullet Island area of the Salton sea basin.

Flood Threat Removed.
The Salton gas emerges from wells drilled at locations starting at 200 feet below sea level. The threat of inundation to this sink by the rampaging Colorado river has been forever removed by the completion of Boulder dam, it is declared. These gas wells would have been the first to be flooded in the event of the disaster feared so long by the desert dwellers.

The Salton gas runs from 99.1 to 99.99 per cent carbon dioxide, with none of the unsavory hydrogen sulfide, according to Prof. G. Ross Robertson of the University of California, Los Angeles. The small residue is harmless inert gas, probably air. Mr. Slate estimates a maximum production of one thousand tons of dry ice per day in his one desert location, some 40 or 50 wells being required to serve the plants proposed to take care of this business.

"Two wells now in service deliver gas at 230 pounds pressure, which means that only half the power is required in contrast to eastern plants using artificially generated gas," Professor Robertson says. "As a result, a cost not over $10 per ton, including manufacturing, administration and sales, f. o. b. plant, is estimated."

"Not the slightest recession of gas pressure, or suggestion in any way of exhaustion, has been noted since this extremely pure gas was discovered three years ago at the east end of the sea, near Niland. Experience in Mexico has shown that carbon dioxide wells may run at full blast for years without diminution, all of which suggests renewed supplies by chemical action deep below the surface."

"The extreme purity of the California gas permits low cost operation and promises to make possible the entry of the product into commercial situations hitherto considered impracticable. The refrigerating efficiency of the dry ice in actual practical applications runs 5 and even 10 to 1 over common water ice, depending upon the kind of refrigeration. In addition the service rendered in stopping bacterial growth adds large value to the use of the dry product."

Remarkable Purity.
"The high purity is remarkable in view of the general probability that the Salton product, like most natural carbon dioxide, is made by the action of oxidized sulphur on natural mineral carbonates such as limestone. Some sort of natural purification must have been carried out deep beneath the surface of the earth, just how no chemist ventures a guess."

"Luckily, the Salton carbon dioxide is located just at the back door of the Imperial and Coachella valleys. California's great outdoor hothouse for winter fruits and vegetables, and on the transcontinental line of the Southern Pacific over which vast tonnages of fruits are shipped eastward throughout the year. All of these vegetable products must be iced, or better yet precooled, and solid carbon dioxide is eminently adapted for the purpose."

"The introduction of a substantial percentage of carbon dioxide gas into a freight car, loaded with fruit, during the course of pre-cooling with dry ice, creates a sluggish blanket of heavy gas air mixture which does not circulate readily and does not conduct the outdoor heat into the load readily. The refrigerating efficiency is thus high."

Development of markets for carbon dioxide refrigeration, it is pointed out, would open up fresh fields for industry, as new equipment for railroads and new refrigerator designs for house holds would be required.

Mailbox's Use Disputed
by a Mouse and a Woman
Washington.—Miss Frances Lundquist, of Brookfield, Conn., wrote her Uncle Sam an urgent note concerning the mutual disturbance of herself and a long-eared field mouse.

"Dear Uncle," wrote Frances, "What shall I do about it? A field mouse with long ears and big eyes has made a nest in my mail box and every time I lift the top I disturb him and he disturbs me—and how! I had to leave this postcard on top."

The Post Office department said it would refer Miss Lundquist's appeal to the rural mail service, which is expert in solving field mouse and allied problems.

The Tiger Beetle

The Tiger beetle is a very graceful and beautifully colored insect. They are the most agile of all the beetles, and are not only swift runners but can also fly. They may be found on hot days in roads, in beaten paths, or on the shores of streams. Their popular name is suggestive of their habits, and of the spots by which many are marked. They are usually a metallic green or bronze, banded or spotted, with yellow. Some, however, are black, and some that live on white sand, are grayish-white. The Tiger beetle larvae are as ugly and awkward as the beetles are beautiful. They are very greedy, always on the search for prey. They live in vertical burrows, in sandy places or beaten-paths, or in plowed fields, that have become dry and hard.

The Black Widow spider seems to be getting as popular as the Merry Widow Waltz.

Mandrake Plant Superstition

The root of the mandrake of history, namely the mandragora, is supposed to become forked and resemble the human form. In this condition it was used as an aphrodisiac. It is alluded to in the Bible and has poisonous qualities. In ancient times human figures were cut out of the root and special virtues ascribed to them. It was also thought that mandrakes could not be uprooted without producing fatal effects, so a cord was tied to the root and around a dog's neck so that when the dog was chased he drew out the mandrake. Another fallacy was that a small dose made a person vain of his beauty, and a large one made him an idiot; yet another belief was that the mandrake utters a scream when it is uprooted. It was supposed to be a creature having life, engendered under the earth of the seed of some dead person put to death for murder.

May Become Human Icicle For The Monkey Freezing Scientist Soon

Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 10 (AP).—Stephen Smkhovitch, 34, has agreed to become a human icicle for science under a contract entered into here with Dr. Ralph S. Willard, the monkey freezing scientist.

Smkhovitch, powerfully built scientist, was chosen for this unique experiment from among 180 persons Dr. Willard said had offered themselves in the interests of medical science.

The scientist said the experiment will begin as soon as a refrigerator suitable to contain the human subject can be built.

Attorneys who drew the contract added that if circumstances arise to prevent making the experiment in the United States it will be carried out in Mexico or any other country where no interference is offered.

Dr. Willard, who said he has frozen solid and later revived small animals over a period of six years in seeking aid for tuberculosis sufferers, announced he had brought one monkey, from a frozen state last Monday without apparent ill effects.

Amateur Night At Municipal Auditorium

Ward Relyea, chairman of the Amateur Night program sponsored by the American Legion Drum Corps, today announced that the event is to be held in the Municipal Auditorium instead of outdoors.

"Uncertainty about the weather caused us to change our minds," he said in explaining the shift. "We feel that the program will be one that none of our friends would want to miss and we wouldn't want to disappoint any of our patrons."

The program will be held on the night of Wednesday, August 21, and it is presumed that there will be many prizes offered for the winners. Those desiring to compete are advised to apply early. This can be done by talking with Lester Barth at the Legion building.

"We want singers, dancers, musicians, musicians and anyone able to entertain in any way," says Chairman Relyea. Proceeds of Amateur Night will be used to defray expenses of sending the Legion Drum Corps to the state convention at Rochester.

One Lesson And You Fly-It-Yourself— That's Idea Of New 'Flivver Planes'

The "guinea pig" of the air, the new plane with which bureau of air commerce officials are experimenting as a step toward fostering large-scale development of safe, inexpensive planes, is seen at upper left. Upper right is another model, that designed by Dean B. Hammond, while below is Waldo Waterman's tailless plane, already accepted by the bureau. Waterman is shown beside his plane.

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Washington (AP)—An ordinary person... an hour of flying instruction... and then "solo."

That, bureau of air commerce officials predict, soon may be the formula for getting the public into the air. In a big laboratory at Langley Field, Va., engineers are tinkering with the "guinea pig" of the government's experiment in fostering large-scale development of cheap, safe "flivver planes."

In addition to the present "guinea pig," at least three more experimental models are to be tested and a fourth, a tailless craft, already has been accepted.

Tests Applied
The "guinea pig," as bureau officials have dubbed it, is the little three-wheeled Weick W-1, with its motor in the rear, and entire front space open to maximum visibility. It is being subjected to almost every known test. In a wind tunnel operated under direction of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, the ship, is being buffeted about under conditions similar to those of actual flying. It also is being tried out in the air.

Standing by are engineers for the committee and for the bureau, seeking modifications wherever there is possibility of improvement. These are being translated into actual changes by the corporation that built the ship.

"Cheaper Than a Car"
The small craft was designed originally by Fred Weick, engineer for the aeronautics committee, and associates, and a contract subsequently was awarded to the Kreider-Reisner aircraft corporation of Hagerstown, Md., for its development. Officials say it could be turned out in quantity production at less cost than the cheapest of currently popular automobiles. No more specific estimate is made.

Meanwhile, experts are scrutinizing a second experimental ship already in the air and accepted—the tailless model designed by Waldo Waterman of Santa Monica, Calif. Waterman's strange-looking craft, officials say, has much in common with the Weick W-1 and other "flivver" types. Each has a plain, small body that somewhat resembles an automobile, each has the motor in the rear and both are equipped with wheels set in triangular fashion, as an aid to safe landing.

Other Planes Due
Three other models are coming shortly. One, constructed by the Hammond aircraft corporation of Ypsilanti, Mich., has the three-wheel and "push" motor features. A second, an autogiro designed for landing almost anywhere, including the highways, is under construction by the Autogiro Company of America, Willow Grove, Pa.

The third, an all-metal ship with a motor in the nose, is nearing completion by the Curtiss-Wright airplane company, Robertson, Mo. Differences in wing characteristics are expected to distinguish it from the more conventional commercial models with front motors.

The bureau's campaign likewise has resulted in four projects to test the possibility of using automobile engines for aviation purposes. Contracts for use of both six and eight cylinder motors have been let.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Broadway Gondolier." Filled to the scuppers with talent from radio, stage and screen, this nautical tale of a taxi driver who goes to Venice in order to be a great radio sensation, has all the earmarks of another Warner Brothers box office attraction, for it has the coyly singing Dick Powell in the starring role, to say nothing of the Mills Brothers, Ted Fio Rito and his band, The Canova Cutups, Joan Blondell, Adolphe Menjou, Grant Mitchell, William Gargan and Louise Fazenda.

The show is a tale of laughter and music, as it tells of a New York taxi driver, anxious to be a radio singer. When the big shots of the air waves pay him no heed, he goes to Italy, paddles a canoe as a gondolier, and comes back to America a positive sensation.

Mr. Powell is at his best in the romantic role of a gondolier, the supporting cast is excellent, and nothing has been spared to make the show an earful and an eye-ful for the most particular audience.

Orpheum: "Our Little Girl" and "Red Blood of Courage." Shirley Temple gives one of her best performances in the first feature, and although the story is trite and ineffective, she gives a standout characterization as the little daughter who saves her parents from cracking up on the matrimonial rocks. Joel McCrea, Rosemary Ames and Lyle Talbot furnish good atmosphere for the acting genius of Miss Temple.

"Red Blood of Courage" is as brave as its title, a thriller with Kermit Maynard starred.

Kingston: "Escape Me Never." Elizabeth Berner, talented and lovely German star of the stage, shows Hollywood some rare acting during the course of this, her first film venture in the United States. It's the wistful, engrossing story of a woman and her tiny child who are adopted by a young and handsome musical genius. Their lives together, sometimes tragic, sometimes humorous, but always realistic, is motion picture entertainment at its best. Miss Berner gives a complete and absorbing characterization, and the work of Hugh Sinclair is also excellent. The direction is something to cheer about, and some of the camera shots are unusually beautiful. A don't miss attraction that stamps Miss Berner as one of the real actresses of Hollywood.

Tomorrow

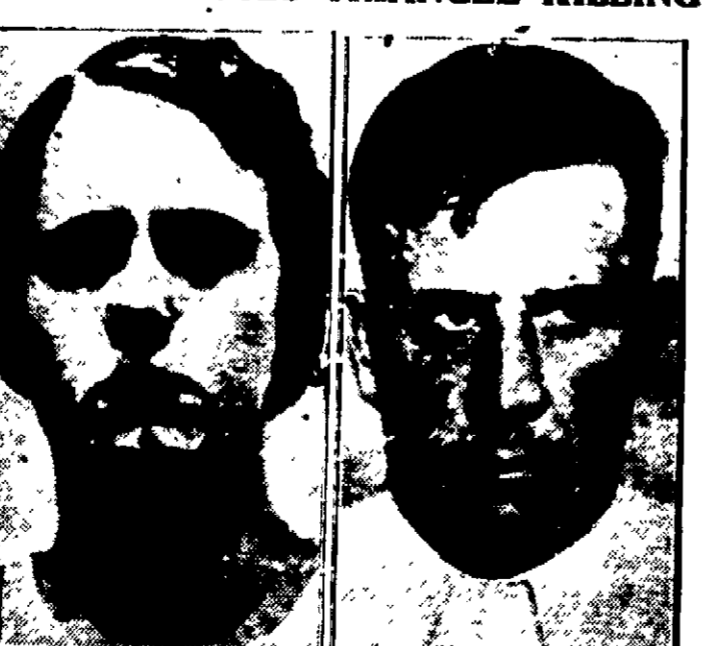

Broadway: Same.

Orpheum: "Spring Tonic." All about a boy and a girl about to be married with the girl skipping out on the boy on the wedding eve. She gets into one complication after another in one of the most unconvincing plots ever written. Lew Ayres, Claude Rains, Walter King and Tala Birell are featured. "The Three Musketeers" continues with another rip roaring chapter as an added feature of the Sunday bill.

Kingston: Same.

MONEY CAUSES TRIANGLE KILLING

Money, just beyond her reach, caused Mrs. Margaret F. O'Brien to plot with Norman O'Brien (both shown above) the slaying of her husband, according to New Jersey authorities. Mrs. O'Brien's mother withheld $149,000 because the 28-year-old school teacher married O'Brien, a poor farmer, according to the case the authorities have built. (Associated Press Photos)
